

Skills to identify training needs and develop a plan of integrated training

Date	Venues	($)Fees	Book your seat
11 May -15 May 2025	Salalah	2950	Register Now

Course Overview

In this course you will distinguish between the proactive / strategic approaches of managing training and the traditional/reactive approach, Use appropriate methods to identify training needs, design and conduct a training needs analysis. Analyze the components of human performance and determine how managers and/or the corporate culture may enhance performance.

Course Objective

- Evaluate the effectiveness of training.
- Specify how Training & Development can contribute to the business
- Recommend improvements to the way Training & Development is positioned in their organisations * Be able to use latest administrative and systems techniques
- Describe how best practice of a Training Coordinator should apply to them in their situation
- Demonstrate in-depth personal learning and new skills and methods for identifying training needs, and understand the evaluation model and how it works
- Take away for implementation in their organization an action plan for implementation which should significantly improve efficiency

Who Should Attend?

Training and development employee involved in the process of training needs analysis, coordinating and organizing training programs, and evaluating the results of training.

Course Outline

- The proactive and strategic role of training
- The contribution of training & development to the business
- Managing information resources –the impact on the training coordinator
- The role of the training coordinator
- Using the new evaluation and quality control model
- Developing the role of the training co-ordinator
- Improving performance
- Evaluating training

Training Methodology

- Presentation & Slides
- Audio Visual Aids
- Interactive Discussion

- Participatory Exercise
- Action Learning
- Class Activities
- Case Studies
- Workshops
- Games & Role plays